DETAILED ACTION

Claim 3 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate of claim 4. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k). The tissue sensing element is claimed in both.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 32, 34, 54 and 56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Daniel et al. (6,027,497). Daniel et al. disclose a medical probe for use with tissue, comprising:

an elongate member (52) having a proximal end and a distal end;

an operative element (optical fiber for transmitting laser energy) carried at the distal end of the elongate member; and a conically-shaped stabilizing shroud (58) circumscribing at least a portion of the operative element, the shroud configured for applying a vacuum force to secure the operative element relative to the tissue; wherein the shroud is secured to the distal end of the elongate member and wherein the shroud is composed of a material exhibiting low electrical conductivity (silicone rubber, plastic, etc. (col. 7, lines 4-11 and col. 10, lines 3-35).

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 27 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Pless et al. (6,645,202). Pless et al. disclose a method of performing a medical procedure on a patient using a medical probe having an operative element and a shroud circumscribing at least a portion of the operative element, comprising:

- introducing the medical probe within the patient to place the operative element adjacent a target epicardial tissue site;
- applying a vacuum force to the shroud to secure the operative element relative to the target tissue site; and
- sensing a signal at the target tissue site (temperature sensor # 336) with the operative element while the operative element is secured relative to the target tissue site (col. 25, line 22-col. 26, line 46).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 27, 29, 30 and 60 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Daniel et al. who disclose the method of performing a medical procedure and all elements essentially as claimed except for a sensor for sensing a signal at the tissue. But, the examiner maintains that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to add a temperature sensor to measure/monitor/control the temperature of the tissue as it is heated/ablated by the energy source. Further, Daniel et al. discloses the shroud faces in the distal direction and that the shroud has one or more vacuum ports.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2, 4, 9-13, 17, 35, 37, 39, 40, 42, 45-53, 55, 57-59, 61, 62 and 64-73 are allowed.

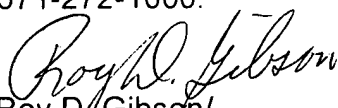

Conclusion

The affidavits and declarations submitted on 9/28/2007 are considered adequate to show the instant invention predates application filing of Whayne et al. (No. 10/425,251, now P/N 7,063,698).
